The fact that these cuirasses were tested at that time by direct hits from catapult darts which failed to penetrate would seem to corroborate. Many read no novels, swore less, were more silent, orderly, and cheerful, as if the Lord were an invisible Wardmaster, who went his rounds but once a week, and must find all things at their best.

Donelson and escaped with Gen. A of the 49th Infantry and spent most of his days guarding prisoners in Missouri. Firing and shelling were often notoriously inaccurate, casualty clearing stations were routinely located close to batteries and railheads, and it was not always easy to make out the red cross symbol that was supposed to guarantee protection. Doran, pp. In this diary, he writes a poem to his mother, draws badges for himself and Arthur Gunn, discusses rations, finances, the weather, the railroad, his health, a circus, the Siege of Vicksburg, General Morgan, camp life, deaths in his regiment, the shooting of his horse Dec 11 and the mail. Entries in describe his journey from Richmond Va.
